DR. SNOWDEN FINED IN COURT

HE PAYS $5 FOR CALLING A HARSH NAME.

Cow That Caused Much Trouble by Invading a Garden Owned by Joseph Welch.

The case of Dr. C. R. Snowden, charged with disturbing the peace, was brought to trial this morning, the defendant being fined $5 and costs. The case had been pending for several days owing to a blunder in drawing the original complaint, the defendant's son being made the defendant, and later due to the non-appearance of the real defendant in court.

A plea of not guilty was entered by Dr. Snowden, and the complainants, Joseph Welch and wife, were asked for their story. They related how the Snowden cow had invaded their garden and had been subsequently impounded by Mr. Welch. The next morning Dr. Snowden called at the Welch home and, after denying that his cow had entered the garden, he proceeded to call Mr. Welch "a lying old fellow" in tones which were audible to his wife within the house.

The defendant admitted that he had called Mr. Welch the names charged, but claimed the complainant had said the same things to him.

The court stated that the doctor had no right to enter a man's premises and insult him with improper language and threats to do him great bodily injury. He then imposed a fine of $5 and costs, which the defendant paid.

Congress today finally passed the lottery bill, approving all of its articles.

GOVERNOR TO BE MADE DEFENDANT IN ACTION

Thomas E. Butler Says He Will Sue
Former Governor for $25,000.

Another chapter in the sensational elopement and marriage of Thomas Edward Butler and Miss Mable Cutler, the eldest daughter of former Governor John C. Cutler, will be added to the romantic drama within the next few days, when Butler will file an action for $25,000 damages against his father-in-law for alienating the affections of his wife.

Butler was in Ogden yesterday and secured a verified copy of the application and marriage license issued to him and his bride of a few hours several months ago. Before leaving for his home in Salt Lake he declared that he would bring suit as soon as the attorneys could prepare the necessary papers.

Butler is positive in his declaration that his wife was influenced against her will to leave him by her father, the former Utah executive.

Irish Stew.

The scrag end of the neck of mutton, say two and a half to three pounds, can be used for this dish. Cut up the meat in neat pieces and season with paprika and salt, put it into a greased stewpan with six or eight large onions cut-up small, and fry for 15 to 20 minutes (but if button onions are obtainable fry the meat separately and add the onions about one hour before serving), then sprinkle over it a tablespoonful of flour and cover it either with cold water or light stock, and add a large bunch of herbs, and simmer for about one and a half to two hours.

Within half an hour of the meat being cooked add two and a half to three dozen blanched olive potatoes, and season with a little paprika and salt; when cooked skim off the fat and dish the meat up, and arrange the onions a little chopped par.

The Essentials.

"I think," said Miss Cayenne, "that I will write a magazine story."
"Have you thought one out?"
"Yes, I'm going to have a man named Hiram, another named Peleg, a girl named Samantha and an old gray mare, and the rest doesn't matter."

CORONER'S INQUEST HELD

WITNESSES TESTIFY AS TO THE SHOOTING OF STAPLES.

Doctors Describe the Wound Which Resulted in Death—Jailer Anderson Tells His Story.

The coroner's inquest held today to determine the cause of the death of Charles Staples, the negro who was shot Saturday evening by Clarence Earnst, a well-known colored man of this city, did not complete its inquiry and the same was ordered continued until Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock.

A colored boy by the name of Terry was first called to the stand. He stated that he had known Staples for several years, both in the West and in New York City. Staples apparently had some racing business with Earnst during the week over which they had quarreled to some extent. Witness had heard that Earnst would do bodily injury to Staples if the latter visited his place again, and witness had attempted to induce Staples to keep away from the place.

Terry was standing near the corner of Lincoln avenue and Twenty-fifth street, at about 10:30 o'clock Saturday evening, and had seen Staples come out of a saloon and start toward the establishment of Earnst. Witness had hastened forward to overtake Staples for the purpose of again trying to prevent his going into the place. About one hundred feet distant, witness heard the sound of a shot and saw Earnst with a gun in his hand, having apparently just shot Staples. The latter leaned against the buildings and made his way to the bootblack stand on the corner where he sat muttering to himself that he had been shot.

Jailer Higbert Anderson was the next witness. He stated that he had been notified by the chief of police to try to arrest the negro, Staples, and that he and Earnst had proceeded down Twenty-fifth street for that purpose. Witness had been warned by Earnst that Staples was a bad man and that it would be advisable for him to be prepared to defend himself instantly should Staples resist arrest.

Not finding Staples in the place they expected to, Anderson left Earnst and started toward the Assembly saloon in the next block. As he passed the corner of Lincoln and Twenty-fifth, witness noticed three men struggling but paid little attention until he had proceeded some distance. He had then heard a shot fired and, upon going back, had found the wounded Staples leaning against the bootblack stand. Witness laid the man down in a comfortable position and sent for a physician, who soon came and the wounded man was taken to the hospital in the patrol wagon.

Doctors Browning and Piddock testified in regard to the bullet wound in Staples' abdomen, which had necessitated the removal of a fifteen-inch piece of intestine which had been perforated five times in that distance. The bullet had lodged in the muscles of the abdomen and was afterward extracted. The man was in practically a dying condition when the operation was performed and succumbed to the wound the next day, without having made any statement whatever in regard to himself or the trouble which had resulted in his being shot.

For One Time Only.

A youthful bachelor once went to live in a village where the old custom of seating the men on one side of the church and the women on the other was kept up.

The first Sunday after he arrived he went to church, accompanied by his housekeeper, and they were duly shown into different pews on either side of the aisle.

But presently the verger came up to the young man and remarked, in a very audible whisper:

"If you are newly-married, you may sit beside her the first Sunday."—Penny Pictorial.

Just Suit Him.

"I don't believe you'd work if your life depended upon it," snorted the angry housewife.

"And dat's where yer do me a great injustice, mum," responded the tall tramp, blandly. "If I could have conditions as I'd like dem, I'd work all de time."

"And how is that?"

"Why, I'd like to shovel snow down in Florida and run a lawn mower up in Alaska, mum."

Self-Sacrifice of Trained Nurse.

Dr. S. Weir Mitchell, physician and author, recently told a graduating class of nurses at the University hospital in Philadelphia that they were "entering the best paid occupation of women wage-earners." Then he added: "It is a startling fact that the limit of the competent working years of the trained nurse is from ten to 15 years, which simply indicates the strain, the sacrifice and devotion of those who thus give themselves to the combat against disease."

five thousand employees of iron and steel companies having headquarters in this vicinity will receive an advance in wages averaging ten per cent the first of June, or the first of July.

Plant for Cooling Oranges.

There is an experimental plant for the pre-cooling of oranges in cars at Los Angeles, Cal. It consists of two 30-inch square insulated ducts leading from an ammonia coilroom capable of supplying from 16 to 20 tons of refrigeration in 24 hours. The cold air is forced in either direction through the car and back to the coilroom by a motor fan. In experiments, says Popular Mechanics, the air was varied from 20 degrees F. when first entering the cars to higher temperatures. The air is forced through the cars at different velocities and in volume varying from 4,500 to 6,000 cubic feet a minute.
